of Courses to be offered as per Annual system

Preamble

Higher education in sociology is a catalyst in shaping the development of human behavior and formation of relationship in society. With the broadening of the concept of 'human behavior and relationship', the possibility of analyze and understand present societal issues, problems and prospects. Hence, higher education as an 'investment' towards promoting growth through better quality human beings in the society and nation building. At the same time, with ever growing awareness, the criteria of quality and relevance' of higher education has also attracted attention from all the quarters in the country. It has, therefore, become inevitable that a close scrutiny be undertaken to take stock of the adaptability of the various disciplines in the changing global scenario. In this context, 'Sociology' has emerged as one of the most 'sought-after' subjects of study in Social Sciences as it immediately communicates with the changing societal priorities and needs.

Recently, many new insights have taken root and become important in social transformation and development processes in society. To name a few – The impact of urbanization, industrialization, globalization, Modernization, spiritual movements etc. on Indian society.

The Committee has tried to assemble main strands of Sociology to be fed to students as inputs that are closer to Indian realities. In the light of the expanding horizons of knowledge, constant endeavors need be made to review the course curriculum so that the study of Sociology remains relevant and focused and relates well to the sweeping changes in the theoretical constructs all around and emerging dynamics of the Indian situation.

The curriculum merits better pondering so as to make it practically more useful and job-oriented in the multifaceted environment ranging from trade, industry, etc. to infrastructure to information technology. At the same time, the syllabus must give sufficient impetus for academic inputs for preparing student for research/teaching career in Sociology. Gearing up the students for passing the examinations and obtaining the degrees should only be incidental and secondary. A challenges of self employment in the face of broadening gap between the demographic needs and the number of jobs becoming available.

Endeavors to reassess the extent to which the curriculum needs to be remodeled are also dependent on the latest developments in thought, technique and analysis and the rapidly changing socio-economic environment in the society. Literature in Sociology has been increasing at a rapid pace-theoretical and empirical contributions are made continuously and these merit proper place in the syllabus to give students greater adaptability and exposure to the expanding frontiers of the subject.

In view of the need for a model syllabus, the department of Sociology B.N. University, formulated its own syllabus with basic framework which is laid down by the University Grants Commission.
